

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Associated Press is the essential global news network, delivering fast, unbiased news from every corner of the world to all media platforms and formats. Founded in 1846, AP today is the largest and most trusted source of independent news and information. On any given day, more than half the world's population sees news from AP.

News bearing the AP logo is respected worldwide for fairness, balance and accuracy. AP operates independently of government control or funding, and has a long history of advocating for the people's right to know. AP journalists have won virtually every award for journalistic excellence.

More than 160 years on, AP's mission to tell important stories whenever and wherever they need telling endures. AP journalists throughout the world today face risks and challenges unheard of even in our long history. With more bureaus in more countries than any other agency, there is always an AP reporter, photographer or cameraman ready to cover the news. Editing desks in London, Bangkok, Mexico City and New York assemble a focused regional news report targeting a worldwide audience. Regional business directors for Asia and the Pacific, for Latin America, and for Europe, Africa and the Middle East provide real-time management on the ground and quick response to customer needs.

AP has built the foundation for how a modern newsroom should operate in a digital world. Our dynamic product portfolio includes wireless services, RSS and interactive products that combine AP text, photos, graphics, audio and video for use with mobile applications and devices. From a minute-by-minute headline services and online video news to innovative financial data and archival images of the past, AP delivers what the world needs to know.
